Ambassador Donald Y. Yamamoto
Senior Bureau Official

Bureau of African Affairs

March 5th at 3:00 p.m. EST

(This call is off-the-record)

Secretary Rex Tillerson to Travel to Addis Ababa, Djibouti, Nairobi, N'Djamena, and Abuja

On his first official trip to Africa, Secretary Rex Tillerson will travel to N'Djamena, Chad; Djibouti, Djibouti; Addis Ababa, Ethiopia; Nairobi, Kenya; and Abuja, Nigeria, March 6-13, 2018. He will meet with leadership in each country, as well as the leadership of the African Union Commission based in Addis Ababa, to further our partnerships with the governments and people of Africa. In particular, he plans to discuss ways we can work with our partners to counter terrorism, advance peace and security, promote good governance, and spur mutually beneficial trade and investment. During his trip, he will also meet with U.S. Embassy personnel and participate in events related to U.S. government-supported activities.

Background:

At the November 2017 African Ministerial hosted at the State Department by Secretary of State Rex Tillerson, he announced his intention to travel to Africa in the first quarter of 2018. This trip underscores the Administration's ongoing commitment to our African partners.

Please join us for an engaging conversation!
